CONQUERORImmense Gathering of Chicago's Black Population

ASSEMBLED AT STATION

Negroes Started to Gather in Chicago
This Morning, Although Train
Was Not Due to Arrive
Until Afternoon.

Chicago, July 7.—Two hundred police have been detailed to be present at the Northwestern railroad station, to prevent trouble when Jack Johnson arrives this afternoon from Reno. The negroes have been gathering there ever since this morning, and it seems that the entire population of the Chicago black belt is to be on hand to greet the member of their race who whipped Jim Jeffries at Reno Monday. Despite the police order prohibiting bands, every negro with the price has hired an automobile, and there are expected to be one hundred machines in the line of parade. Hundreds of dollars' worth of flowers have been sent to the Johnson home here, and there will be a carpet of roses on which he will walk from the automobile to his house.

LANGFORD ACCEPTS
JOHNSON'S OFFER

There May Be Another Great Prize Fight to Talk About If Johnson Meant
What He Said While at Reno.

New York, July 7.—Joe Woodman, manager for Sam Langford, the colored pugilist, wired friends here to-day that he will accept Jack Johnson's offer to fight for a side bet of $20,000 and that he will post the money here as soon as Johnson arrives from Reno, where he whipped Jim Jeffries on Monday, and in case Johnson makes good on the offer. The feeling between the negroes is so bitter that it is believed they will try to kill each other in the ring if they should meet. Only a few months ago at the Pittsburgh Negro club Langford took off his coat and offered to fight Johnson. But Johnson, who weighs 180 pounds, declined. Langford now weighs 180 pounds. He declares that he will do Johnson all over the world if necessary to get a match with him.

He is sullen and silent and is said to go into a wild rage whenever the Reno fight is mentioned.

Seven Medical Colleges in New England
Called First Class.

Boston, July 7.—According to the report of the American Medical association there are seven medical colleges in New England which are rated as of the first class, there being but seventy in the country at large. The examination of the medical schools was made by a committee of five eminent physicians and surgeons, representing each section of the United States. It included one or more personal inspections of each individual medical school. The committee members are: Dr. H. D. Arnold, Massachusetts; J. D. Tuller, Missouri; J. A. Camp, Illinois; James H. Bullitt, Mississippi, and Hubert Work, Colorado, chairman.

Commencing five years ago, the investigation has been most thorough, and the classifications of the various colleges have been made only after an immense amount of labor and study on the question of medical education. Like the report of the Carnegie Foundation, the report of the American Medical association states that there are too many medical colleges in this country. It advocates the combination of the medical schools into a few first-class schools, each could stand improvement to keep pace with the higher standards of the advancement of medical research, makes necessary.

The report states that there are seventy medical colleges which it considers as first-class in the entire country. It places twenty-nine in class B, or second-class schools, and delegates twenty-seven medical colleges which it considers as first-class in the entire country.

The first-class colleges in New England, according to the report, are the Medical School of Maine, Boston university School of Medicine, Harvard Medical school and Tufts College Medical school in Massachusetts; Yale Medical school in Connecticut; Dartmouth Medical school in New Hampshire; and the University of Vermont College of Medicine, Vermont.

There are no second-class medical schools in the New England states, and but one in the third-class.

SIMPLE FUNERAL SERVICE

For Chief Justice Fuller at Sorrento,
Maine, Yesterday.

Sorrento, Me., July 7.—In a little Episcopal church only a short distance from "Mainstay," where the venerable jurist had passed so many quiet and pleasant summers was held yesterday afternoon the funeral service of Melville W. Fuller, LL. D., chief justice of the supreme court of the United States, who died Monday morning. The edifice was thronged with relatives and men of national prominence and summer residents of Sorrento, Bar Harbor and other neighboring resorts.

The body of the chief justice in a black velvet, draped casket with an immense pall of ferns and flowers, rested in front of the altar and was surrounded by a beautiful piece from President Taft, who sent his regrets that it was impossible to be present.

According to the wishes of the chief justice, the simple funeral service of the Episcopal church ritual was read by the Rev. James E. Freeman of Minnesota, a close friend of the Fuller family.

The pall bearers were Gov. Charles H. Hughes of New York, Associate Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes and Joseph McKenna of the United States supreme court, United States Senator Eugene Hale, the senior senator from Maine, Gen. Thomas H. Hubbard of New York and Nathaniel L. Francis of Washington, a son-in-law of the deceased.

With the exception of Mrs. Francis, none of the five daughters was able to be present at the service here. The body will be taken to Chicago where an interment service, conducted by the Rev. Mr. Freeman, will be held in Greenland cemetery chapel Friday afternoon. The body will be buried beside that of Mrs. Fuller, who died here six years ago. Numerous messages of condolence were received yesterday but at the request of Mrs. Francis the decision not to make them public was not broken.

WILL PAY DIVIDEND SOON.

National City Bank of Cambridge, Mass.,
Wrecked by Coleman.

Washington, D. C., July 7.—It was learned at the office of the controller of the currency yesterday that a dividend of 60 per cent. will shortly be paid to the depositors of the National City Bank of Cambridge, which has been in the hands of a receiver since the Coleman defalcation.

The dividend will be the first to be received by the depositors, but it will not be the last, according to the controller's office. An estimate of the total dividends to be paid the depositors could not be obtained yesterday.

Deputy Controller Kane says that ex-Gov. John L. Bates has made an excellent record as receiver of the Cambridge bank. Mr. Bates has reported the progress of the receivership from time to time. It is said that the short period elapsing before the declaration of the dividend in this case is unusual and speaks well for Gov. Bates' work.

Some time ago the controller assessed the stockholders of the bank, including President Emeritus Elliot of Harvard, 100 per cent. of their holdings.

Examiner Pepper, who reported the bank to be in good condition a short time before its failure, has not yet been assigned to active duty on the controller's staff. Mr. Pepper is technically employed winding up two old receiverships of Massachusetts national banks, but it is said that he is practically doing nothing. Mr. Pepper has not yet been restored to favor with the controller. In spite of the fact that other treasury officials say he was not to blame for failing to discover Coleman's defalcation before the bank's account were audited.

To-day, Was Captured at Taunton,
Whither He Had Fled—Daughter
Will Live.

Mrs. Lopes' skull was pierced by the bullet and the doctors give no hope of her recovery. After doing this work Monteiro fled from the house and was later captured in Taunton.

FATHER WAS TOO LATE

To Prevented Marriage of Daughter to a New Acquaintance.

Chamont, N. H., July 7.—Ray V. Andrews, who gave his age as 21 and his address Proctorville, Vt., and Miss Achley of Chamont, Vt., came here yesterday, and, obtaining a marriage license, were married by town clerk Hiram C. Sherman in his office. The bride, who gave her age as 18, is daughter of Lovell Achley, who works in the Ludlow, Vt., creamery.

He heard of the marriage intentions of his daughter by telephone and sent word to Chief of Police J. H. Ober to stop the wedding, stating that the girl was only 17 years old and had known Andrews only since July 4, when he had accompanied her home and remained until he had sent his daughter to bed and ordered the young man from his house.

Meantime the wedding took place and the couple left here on an afternoon train for Bellows Falls. The girl is said to have stated before the ceremony that it was a case of elopement. It is claimed Andrews' parents reside in the West.

A LITTLE ROMANCE

Culminated in a Marriage at Franklin,
N. H., Yesterday.

Franklin, N. H., July 7.—Thomas S. McArthur and Mrs. Alice W. Preston were married at 11 a. m. yesterday. The ceremony took place at the Christian church and was performed by Rev. George L. Michelson. The couple were unmarried. The bride wore a gown of white-velvet silk. Mr. and Mrs. McArthur left on the noon train for a wedding trip to Sharon, Vt.

Their marriage is the result of a recent strike in the mills of the International Paper company. Mr. McArthur came here during the strike and accepted a position in the mill. He met and fell in love with the bride. She has been a dressmaker in this city for some time and is a very prepossessing young woman.

DID NOT VISIT SON

But Henry Watterson Went to See Son's Lawyer.

Kingston, N. Y., July 7.—When Col. Henry Watterson of Louisville, Ky., arrived yesterday, he did not go near his son, Tving, who is in jail here charged with shooting Michael J. Martin, a Saugerties saloonkeeper, but instead he closeted himself for an hour with ex-Mayor William D. Brinler, his son's counsel.

During the consultation, Colonel Watterson was in communication with the telephone with District Attorney Cunningham at Ellenville, who said afterward that his attitude will be in accord with that of the colonel, if the present situation remains unchanged.

This statement, taken with the fact that no application has been made for the release of Ewing Watterson on bail, is taken to indicate that Colonel Watterson believes his son innocent and that he will approve of an application by the district attorney for a commission in lunacy to examine his son's sanity.

If Ewing Watterson is insane, an application will be made by the county authorities for his commitment to the Matteawan state hospital.

Colonel Watterson left his attorney's office much depressed and took the first train for New York. He would make no statement.

Snyder of Colorado as president and Mrs. Ella Flagg Young of Chicago for one of the vice-presidents. LITTLE BOY DROWNS
LEARNING TO SWIM

Arthur Plouffe, Aged 10, of St. Albans
Lost His Life at St. Albans Bay
Yesterday Afternoon.

St. Albans, July 7.—A drowning occurred at St. Albans bay yesterday afternoon, when Arthur, the 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonide Plouffe of Walnut street, lost his life.

It appears that a number of boys from the city went to the bay for a sail and a swim shortly after noon. Several were in a boat near Major's boat house, and the Plouffe boy was told that the only way to learn to swim was in deep water, so he jumped in.

He became frightened when he found himself beyond his depth and struggled to a scow nearby. As he reached it an older boy is said to have shaken him off and to have pushed his head under water. The Plouffe had then sank to the bottom.

The boys became frightened and yelled for help. Several started for the scene and Richard Ward, arriving first, pulled the boy out. He was taken ashore and all first aid methods were exhausted by a number of people in an effort to revive him. Dr. Perrault was hurriedly summoned from the city and worked hard to restore the spark of life, but failed.

The boy's father went down with the ambulance and took the little fellow home to his mother. The funeral will probably be held Friday morning.

DROWNED WHILE AT PLAY.

Nashua, N. H., Boy Second River Victim
In One Week.

Nashua, N. H., July 7.—Blodgett Narkier, the 5-year-old son of Andrew Narkier of School street, was drowned in the Nashua river yesterday afternoon. He was playing on the edge of a wall, which forms the south bank of the river, west of the Main street bridge, with a boy of his own age, the son of Thomas Diggins of High street.

The Diggins boy reported that the other lad fell in the water. He was the only witness of the accident. A large throng assembled on the bridge and river bank. One of the first to reach the scene was the mother of the victim. The police dragged the river until after dark without finding the body. This is the second drowning in the river near the bridge this week.

The body of the other victim, supposed to be Robert Popp, a journeyman wooden weaver, who fell into the river while asleep on the bank just below the bridge Monday, is still at the undertaker's. Unless claimed by friends to-day, the body will be buried in this city.

mont, N. H.

Chamont, N. H., July 7.—Margaret Hoban, aged 6 years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Hoban of Prospect street, was seriously injured yesterday afternoon by a torpedo cap exploding in her mouth. It is not known how she came by the cap, which she had picked up somewhere, thinking it a piece of paper, which she tried to chew.

Her mother was coming the little girl's hair at the time, and did not notice anything unusual until the explosion of the cap, which fearfully lacerated the child's mouth and tongue. The doctor thinks no permanent injury will result.

CONFLICTING
EVIDENCEAs to the Almon Accident in Montpelier

BY THE WITNESSES TODAY

Public Service Commission Gave a Hearing and Got a Collection of Varied
Testimony as to the Causes of the Accident.

Decided differences of opinion whether the motorman rang the bell before his car struck John Cross' automobile on State street, Montpelier, last April, when Mrs. George H. Almon was seriously injured, developed at the hearing before the Vermont public service commission at the State House to-day. The motorman, Peter Duclaux, was certain that he sounded the bell, and his testimony was corroborated by Lucien E. Wright, who happened to be on the street, while George H. Almon, who was in the auto with Mrs. Almon and Mr. Cross, was just as certain that the motorman did not ring the bell nor heed his (Mr. Almon's) warning. So the public service commission will have the duty of deciding, if possible.

Mrs. Almon, the victim, is still in Heaton hospital, but is slowly recovering from the injuries. She, of course, could not testify; but the other adult occupants of the automobile did, as well as eye-witnesses of the accident. The other witnesses were Louis Thresher, Mrs. Carrie Carpenter, Dr. W. W. Brock, George Buswell, Joseph Jangray and Mrs. Blanchard. They all agreed that it was just between daylight and dark when the crash came.

The auto party was returning from Montpelier and was proceeding up State street, when they decided to turn around. Mr. Cross was operating the car, and he ran to the curb and started to look across the street car track, the approaching Seminary hill car being some distance up the street. Some difference of opinion also developed on this point, as to how far away the electric car was. Mr. Almon thought it was some three hundred feet farther away than Mr. Buswell thought, the latter having preceded the Cross automobile in another machine. In fact, Mr. Almon thought the car was near the Heaton hotel, but Mr. Buswell said his machine passed the street car in front of the Riverside hotel and he was near the Seminary hill.

William Duclaux, who was driving the automobile standing still at that time, was not waving from the automobile. He said he rang the bell and started to send his car by the auto, followed by the crash. The rate of the electric car was variously estimated from five to ten miles an hour. On the signaling question, Mr. Wright said he saw Mr. Almon wave his hand to the approaching street car.

Mr. Cross' ability to run a car was also considered. Mr. Cross thinking himself capable, having started to learn in March and having been out in the machine probably fifty miles and having traversed 500 miles.

After getting as much certainty out of the testimony as possible, the commission went to the scene of the accident, which was near the commission's headquarters, and then adjourned, to give a decision later.

NEW STATION ASSURED.

For Brattleboro Through Public Service
Commission's Order.

Brattleboro, July 7.—Yesterday afternoon the public service commission, at an adjourned hearing, made an order directing the Central Vermont railroad to abolish the grade crossing on Bridge street, which will necessitate the building of the new passenger station as contemplated by the railroad officials and agreed upon by the town committee and the railroad management, after conferences extending over a period of over a year. While the matter had been practically settled between the town of Brattleboro and the railroad, the action of the public service commission makes the abolition of the grade crossing sure, as the formal order, which will be issued within a few days, will direct that work begin forthwith and that the changes be completed not later than November 1, 1911.

The Central Vermont railroad was represented at the hearing by General Manager G. C. Jones, General Counsel C. W. Witters and Chief Engineer Morrison. Clarke C. Pitts and A. P. Carpenter appeared as counsel for the actionmen and town committee.

The attorney of the Boston & Maine bridge that the matter of abolishing the grade crossing be delayed for 30 days or more. It is said that the Boston & Maine management fears that the people of Brattleboro will demand that the public service commission order them to use the new passenger station to be built by the Central Vermont. Such an order would naturally cause the delay in the building of the new station, which would be obliged to back its trains over a half a mile to this station.

How to Train a Dog.

The training of a dog should begin when the animal is a puppy, according to N. Newman-Davis, who says in Suburban Life for July: "If the dog is secured when a puppy, it is not difficult to inculcate good habits. Discipline must be enforced, but not with cruelty. Almost any dog can easily be managed by one for whom it has a genuine affection, and oftentimes a severe scolding is more effective than a beating. In fact, whipping is seldom necessary, except when the offense is a serious one. When chastisement must be administered, the dog should be held securely while it is being inflicted, and should not be allowed its freedom until a complete understanding has been re-established between the animal and his master."

MONTPELIER MAN INJURED.

Barre Auto Frightened Team, Which Went Down 10-foot Bank.

While returning from Montpelier yesterday afternoon, a team containing George McMaisters and Joseph E. Clark of Montpelier became frightened by the automobile of Will Persons of Barre and caused quite a serious accident, the whole outfit, including the men, going over a ten-foot bank, and hurting Mr. Clark considerably.

In a narrow place in the road, about a mile and a half from Montpelier, the auto came upon the team, which was a strange one to the driver and very spirited. Mr. Persons stopped his car to allow the team to pass, but, instead, it went over the bank toward the river. Mr. Clark had no chance to escape, as he was on the lower side of the wagon, and he struck on a stone which sprang his back and left him in a serious condition. He was taken to his home in Montpelier and was as comfortable last night as could be expected. There seems to be no fracture of his back, and there is every reason to expect that he will ultimately recover, though it probably slowly. Mr. McMaisters jumped and released Mr. Clark from his perilous position and received only minor bruises. The wagon was not badly damaged, and the horse was uninjured.

No blame whatever is attached to Mr. Persons, as he did all he could to prevent the accident, and after it occurred took the man in his auto to the home of Henry Hudson in Middlesex, from which place a call was sent for a physician.

Younger Companion Says That Ernest
Raymo Got His Inspiration Out of Yellow-backed "Literature."
The Story of Crime.

On information filed in county court yesterday afternoon by State's Attorney Gates, Ernest Raymo was found guilty of grand larceny of goods from the store of Earl S. Shepard and was sentenced to the industrial school at Vergennes for the remainder of his minority, which will be about three years. Raymo and the Galway boy, who was implicated in the breaks with him and was given the same kind of a sentence by Judge Scott in city court yesterday, were both taken to Vergennes to-day by Sheriff Frank Tracy.

Last evening the police officers had a long talk with the Galway boy at the station, and the boy told a complete story of all that he knew about the breaks that he and Raymo had made in this city during the past few months. He said that they had made their rendezvous on nights when they had planned to make a break in the barn beside K. L. Clark's feed store on Prospect street. He took the officers to the barn and they found a pile of shavings there, where the boy said they had slept several nights and buried up in the shavings a bit and hitcock, a small knife and a lantern were found
